Why the Best Publish with Savant

Savant is committed to being the best quality, independent, small publisher in the world. Savant welcomes unsolicited manuscripts and does not require writers to have an agent. Savant typically receives a hundred submissions per month. All manuscripts that meet MSP requirements are read. Savant performs a marketing survey on all promising works before contracting for publication. Savant Books and Publications actively seeks new world-class authors with unique story-lines before they become famous, providing readers with the best in new books.

Once contracted, writers:

- are provided a professional editor, cover artist, publicity and distribution specialist at no charge to the author;
- retain all rights to their published works including screen options;
- are not required to self-purchase books;
- earn royalties on every sale including author purchases (except for Savant open-call poetry and short story anthologies);
- works are printed on demand, eliminating warehousing and most common distribution problems; and
- works are available, fresh and new, during the entire life of publication (we don't backlist).

Once published, Savant provides publicity, marketing, distribution and author-opportunities to maximize sales, and author/title name recognition.

With Savant Books and Publications there is nothing to stop outstanding writers from seeing their works in the hands of appreciative readers. If you are the one in two hundred authors Savant is looking for, submit a Manuscript Submission Package (MSP) online at

<http://www.savantbooksandpublications.com/contact.php>

Historical novel of India - 286 pp. 6" x 9" Softcover - ISBN 978-0-9829987-0-0
A love-song for a tumultuous time in India, IN THE HIMALAYAN NIGHTS, captures eighteen days and evenings in 1977, at a moment when India teetered on the edge of what it would become as it reincarnated for a postmodern, hyper-real world. Struggling with questions about the nature of morality, the authenticity of folk heroes, and the reality of ritual possession, an Indian-American anthropologist, his wife, and his graduate students witness a performance of the ancient Bhagavad Gita. Whether because of the hypnotic drumming or the inspired analysis emerging from the group and their hosts, each become entangled in what can only be appropriately called their own dharmic war.
